OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON D C Sept 18, 1866

The only places where the President and his party have been welcomed with enthusiasm are Baltimore and Washington Saturday last was a great day for him in this respect In the afternoon he was received at Baltimore—in the evening at Washington In the former city all the eminent cut-throats of the Southern party were out in force. I do not exaggerate but I tell the exact truth The people who shouted the loudest welcome to Andy Johnson Saturday afternoon, were the very men who helped in the butchery of Massachusetts soldiers in 1861 and no man connected with the Administration, or any private Baltimore citizen dare deny it. I do not mean to say that there were not many loyal men in the welcoming crowd or that some citizens of Baltimore who stood by the Government during the rebellion have not gone over to Johnson but the leading spirits of the crowd were the old rebels Seward had gone on to Washington ill with the excesses of the trip or with its hardships, (whichever way you choose) and Gen Grant was so tired out and disgusted that he would not consent to take part in any further "receptions," so he went on in advance of the President

The reception in this city was quite enthusiastic as is very natural The old inhabitants hate the North and radicalism and have a very friendly feeling towards the Southern policy Then there were two or three thousand clerks, who if they do not have a very disinterested friendship for the President will not quarrel with their bread and butter any more than they are compelled to do so There was not a little noise—not a little show of enthusiasm and there was doubtless some real feeling exhibited The President seemed glad to get back and it's no wonder But from what I can learn he has not got his eyes open yet but blindly fiercely strikes for "my policy," and has the insanity to believe that the people are with him even at the North and West!

And now the trip is over, what has been gained by it for the new party? Nothing gained, but a vast deal lost In every State through which they passed (the Presidential electioneering party), except Maryland they lost votes, and thousands of them too Indeed a reaction sets in before the elections Pennsylvania Ohio and New York are sure to go for the Congressional policy, and no man will have done so much to accomplish this result as Andy Johnson himself! In some aspects in which we are compelled to view him he certainly does seem to be an egregious ass and how much better is Seward? He has been laughing and swearing his way over the country, and now has got back sick in the old place What has he gained? The politicians who always look at the acts of a public man with suspicion say that he took Johnson on this trip on purpose to kill him and get him out of the way I do not believe he possesses the shrewdness or the meanness for such an act

The drift of public sentiment is shown by certain political "straws" First the Evening Post is out flatly for the re-election of Gov Fenton Yet a week ago it desired the destruction of the Republican party The time has come, it said, when it ought to perish! It has veered round It always seemed to me that the unlucky editorial was written by some novice in the absence of Mr Bryant Mr Godwin who stands next to Mr. Bryant in dictating the political course of the people is in Europe, and it will not be surprising if the editorial in question was a mistake—a blunder very mortifying to the responsible parties But however that may be the Post is round in its old place Then, wonderful to tell, the New York Herald has made another somersault and is raving away for Congress and the Constitutional amendment as if it had been an abolitionist all its life! This is most marvellous, and I learn that it is about the only "sign of the times" which has stricken terror into the President's breast He always was a sort of New York Herald man—coarse, violent, worshipping success and having a great respect for the heaviest battalions He used to read the Herald, but has now taken to the Times, World and Intelligencer of this city.

The Maine election has startled the Herald as well as the Evening Post Will it startle the President into a more decent behavior? A Maine paper states the results of the election very forcibly and pardon me for quoting a paragraph

> Gen Chamberlain has been triumphantly elected under circumstances that must be highly pleasing to that able Lawyer and patriotic soldier The Democrats expected to win a victory in the First Congressional District which was represented by a gentleman of their persuasion Mr Sweat in the last Congress who was beaten by Mr Lynch in '64 but not only did they fail to turn Mr Lynch out but they had to submit to the mortification of seeing him re-elected by a greatly increased majority He came in by some 500 in '64, but he was kept in last Monday by 4,000 majority Such was the result of that specimen of Democratic calculation The other five districts gave Republican majorities ranging from 4 500 to 6,... and the entire Republican majority reckoned by Congressional districts is about 26,000 The legislative elections went as decisively against the Democrats as the election of thirty-one (31) Senators not one is a Democrat, and of one hundred and fifty-one (151) members of the House of Representatives, only fifteen (15) are Democrats—a number which does not afford a fair representation of their party's strength The county elections were all decided adversely to the new movement and as far as Maine is concerned that movement has been checked and the Johnsonian train thrown off the track As Maine is an old Democratic State her decision with the issue squarely presented must bear with great force on the elections in other States—on those of Pennsylvania and Ohio of Indiana and Illinois, of New York and Iowa, and on others Since the Philadelphia Johnsonian Convention adjourned two New England States, Vermont and Maine the one an old Whig State and the other an old Democratic State, have voted, and their united majorities against the Administration roll up to 55,600 though they have but eight members of the U S House of Representatives! Should the Western States do as well, and the Middle States half as well, the popular majority against policy will not be less than half a million

By all means let us have the half a million! The soldiers are being used by the political parties with considerable effect in the campaign It is not difficult to find Generals and Colonels to figure at conventions on each side, but the large majority of the common soldiers in the West and North side with Congress and the so-called Radicals The elections will show if I am correct in this estimate. Certainly there can be no doubt about the fact in Maine

Henry Ward Beecher preached his first sermon for six weeks to his Brooklyn church last Sunday There was not an allusion to "politics" There was an immense crowd, as if something in reference to the times was expected. It will not be long however before Mr Beecher will explain himself from his pulpit

Dr Bellows the great Unitarian preacher took occasion yesterday to "free his mind" upon the contest between the President and Congress He took hold good with Congress and predicted that the fall elections would result in favor of the Radicals. Dr Bellows has heretofore been a conservative Republican and his coming out in this way is significant He has not made Beecher's blunder The fact is that the President's St Louis speech has driven hundreds of men like Dr Bellows over to the Congressional party I suppose you have printed the St Louis speech, but at the risk of repetition let me quote from it two paragraphs which are perhaps the worst he has yet uttered

> ... call on Judge Chase to hang Jeff. Davis, will you? ... I am not the jury or the judge Before the case comes to me and all other cases it would have to come on an application for pardon ... that is the only way the case can get to me Why ... Judge Chase Chief Justice of the United States ... district Davis is in — why don't he try him? (Loud cheers) But perhaps I could answer the question as sometimes persons want to be facetious and indulge in repartee I might ask you a question why don't I hang Thad Stevens and Wendell Phillips (Great cheering) A traitor at one end of the line is as bad as a traitor at the other.
> I believe that one set of men have enjoyed the emoluments of office long enough and they should let another portion of the people have a chance (Cheers.) How are these men to be got out? (A voice—"Kick 'em out" ...) ... the Executive can put them out— ... reach them through the President ... Congress says he shall not turn them out and they are trying to pass laws to prevent it being done ... Well I say to you if you will stand by me in this action (cheers—"we will") ... I am trying to give the people a fair chance ... soldiers and citizens to participate in these offices God being willing I will kick them out, I will kick them out just as fast as I can (Great cheering) Let me say to you in concluding what I have said (and I intended to say but little but was provoked into this) that I care not for the menaces their taunts and their jeers I care not for their threats I do not intend to be bullied by my enemies nor overawed by my friends (Cheers) But God willing with your help I will veto their measures whenever they come to me I place myself upon the ramparts of the Constitution when I see the enemy approaching so long as I have eyes to see or ears to hear or a tongue to sound the alarm so help me God I will do it, and call on the people to be my judges (Cheers.)

Did you ever read anything like that from a President? The fact is that the whole trip was an electioneering dodge from beginning to end Neither Johnson or Seward cared much for the memory of Douglas They cared a great deal more about whipping Congress and with the hope that they could make use of Grant and Farragut to run "my policy" down the throats of the Western people they set out We can watch for the response about election time!

Aside from politics I've nothing to tell you Everything is dull here—dreadfully dull Johnson has now come back and I am in hopes that he will make things lively, and if in no other way that he will do it by cutting off heads Let him move around—the faster the better for us!

There are three thousand clerks in Washington who are silent lest they shall lose their places, but twenty five hundred of them would rejoice to morrow if the Johnson policy could meet with a ignominious failure ONCE A WEEK

SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 20, 1866.

The Union Party not a Minority.

The Copperheads delight to call the great Union party a "faction." One of their strong points is to represent that party as a minority of the whole people of the United States, and to assert that the country is governed by one-third or less of its voting population. They argue that the Northern Democrats and Southern rebels combined, constitute a vast majority, and that, as such they are entitled to control the Government. We shall not presume to doubt that the rebels South and the Copperheads North are at one in their sentiments and aims. They gravitate toward each other on the Darwinian philosophy of natural selection and association. But when combined they are not a majority of the people, and their frequent assertions that they are such, will not bear investigation.

The entire vote of the slave States in 1860—that is to say the combined vote for Douglas, Breckinridge and Bell—was 1,250,369. Their voting population now, is certainly a quarter of a million less. During the rebellion the South had not access to the rest of the world to replenish her population. The waste of war was very great. Large numbers left that country and came North, who have not since returned. While the war was in progress the South could receive no accessions to her population by immigration; and since the nominal cessation of hostilities, that section has been so unsettled by domestic violence, and so full of danger to Northern people and others, that few have yet gone there to remain permanently. The South still repels population, and it cannot therefore be supposed that she has gained anything since the war. The waste of human life in the great struggle has not therefore been repaired, and it may be set down with certainty that she has a quarter of a million fewer votes than she had six years ago. This idea is supported by the results of the elections which have been held since the suppression of the rebellion. These elections show a reduction in the votes which might aggregate much larger than a quarter of a million. For example, in 1860 Mississippi threw a total of 69,120 votes. At the general election in 1865, the entire vote was 44,916—showing a loss of 25,000, or more than one-third of the whole. The vote of Louisiana in 1860 was upwards of 50,000. In 1865 something less than 30,000 votes were thrown. In 1860 North Carolina gave 96,230 votes. Her entire vote in 1865, was under 60,000. The vote of Alabama in 1860 was 89,572; in 1865 it was 44,350. While it is not claimed that the greatest voting strength of these States was called out in 1865, it is nevertheless certain that nearly all their votes were polled. In each of them there was an animated canvass between the straight rebels and the "conservative" Unionists; and the competition ran high enough to call out as large a proportion of the entire vote as is polled anywhere in ordinary elections. Governor Parsons of Alabama said that that State had lost one-third of its able-bodied male population by the war; and it is not likely that Alabama suffered more severely than her sisters. Putting these facts together, it may be set down with tolerable certainty that the entire voting population of the late slave States does not exceed one million.

From the returns of the latest elections held in Maryland, Missouri, Delaware, Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia and Texas, it appears that the Union vote in those States alone foots up fully 250,000. In the remainder of the late slave States the strength of the Union party is not, proportionately, so great. But in some of them, as North Carolina and Louisiana, there are considerable numbers of original Union men whose sympathies always have been, and are still with the Union party. Of these, there are certainly, in all the States besides those first named, fully 50,000. This estimate—and it is a moderate one would give 300,000 Union votes in the States lately devoted to slavery—reducing the rebel Democratic vote to 700,000. The rebel Democratic majority in the fifteen late slave States would therefore amount to 400,000 votes. This is its utmost strength in the South, and it is less than the Union Republican majority in the Northern States.

In 1864, Lincoln's majority was 411,281. The late elections show that this Union majority has increased since then, rather than diminished. We have lost nothing in any State, while in some we have very large gains. In six of the Northern States which have already held their elections, the Union majorities foot up 190,000 votes. Some of the strongest of the Union States, including Massachusetts and Illinois—two States which in 1864 gave Lincoln upwards of 100,000 majority, and which this fall will give larger majorities still—are yet to vote. The entire Union majority in the loyal States will not fall much under half a million. But put it no higher than it was two years ago, and it is still fully as large, if not larger, than the rebel-Democratic majority of the South. The dominant party, therefore, is not a minority of the people. The "Radicals" are quite as numerous as the rebels and Democrats combined. They have large majorities in a majority of the States, and intend that the minority shall submit, as they themselves will do whenever they are fairly outvoted.

We suppose that the poor simpleton Rosenheim means to resign his seat in the Legislature, as he has voted himself a lucrative office in the city of Portland. Now that the session of the Legislature is about ended he can hope to make nothing more of that "lay," and must therefore look out for something else. An office with a salary of $300 per year is just about large enough for his towering ambition. Brilliant idea of Rosenheim to devise this new way of making it pay. The Chairman of the Committee on Commerce is not quite so dull after all.

Johnson and his claquers abuse Congress bitterly for increasing the salaries of its members. We believe that Congress should be censured for this act; yet the measure was originated by one of the President's supporters and voted for by nearly all of them. A greater proportion of Democrats than of Republicans voted for it. And finally it was signed and approved by Johnson himself. In extenuation, however, we believe that the President's friends claim that he was drunk when he signed the bill.

STATE ITEMS.

Governor Woods received a telegram on Thursday afternoon from Jacksonville, giving information that Nelson Hauxhurst had been captured at or near Jacksonville. He will probably arrive, in charge of an officer, at Salem in a day or two.

The stage from Canyon City, which arrived at the Dalles on the 18th inst., reports some Indian depredations on the road, such as stealing cattle, etc. Mining news is unimportant. Col. Baker, with a party of soldiers is out in the mountains scouting. No news has been had from him since he left Camp Watson.

There is a pair of counterfeitors about the Dalles, distributing counterfeit half dollars of 1854 and 1860. It is supposed that they have an eye on Boise, as they have taken sudden leave for that direction. So look out for the "spurious metallic substance," and the counterfeiting rogues.

Our Dalles letter informs us that the steamer Nanagan was brought safely through the Dalles of the Columbia on the 17th, to the O. S. N. Co's landing in the city. She was brought through by Capt. Stump, and is the first steamer that ever made the perilous passage. Great credit is due Capt. Stump for the skill he displayed in the dangerous yet successful undertaking.

Our report from the Dalles says that trade is not very brisk. All the freight that was at that point a few days ago, has been shipped by heavy teams to Canyon City at fair rates. There had been no rain at the Dalles up to the 18th. High winds prevailed the day previous on the river, so that the boats above were compelled to tie up. The steamer got down late Thursday evening.

OUR SALEM LETTER.

Oregon State Fair—Third Day.

SALEM, October 18, 1866.

The election for officers of the State Agricultural Society, which closed too late last evening for me to learn the facts, resulted in the re-election of J. H. Douthit, of Linn county, for President; A. C. Schwatka, of the Oregon Agriculturist, Corresponding Secretary; E. M. Waite, of Salem, Recording Secretary. I did not procure a list of the Vice-Presidents. The administration of the last year by Messrs. Douthit and Peebles and the Board of Managers, seems to have given quite general satisfaction, as is evidenced by the re-election of Mr. D. The poll of votes, was in consequence, unusually small, there being no desire in any quarter for a change in the administration. Mr. Peebles, I learn, did not desire a re-election. Of Messrs. Douthit and Waite, I need say nothing, as their past connection with the Society affords ample guarantee of the efficiency and faithfulness which may be expected in the future. Mr. Schwatka, the proprietor of the Agriculturist, is a young man of much energy and industry, and devoted to the advancement of the farming and mechanical interests of the State. I predict for the next year's management a decided success.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS AND MACHINERY.

Everybody is disappointed, as usual, at the paucity of agricultural implements on exhibition. It must be thought after awhile that the farmers and mechanics of the State are either carrying on their work without tools or with such miserably poor ones that they are ashamed to show them. I find, to-day, that a very few additions have been made to the collection of yesterday. A visit to the "Oregon Giant" reaper, noticed yesterday, revealed the fact that it sported the blue ribbon, the color of all first premiums.

Mr. Delos Jefferson, of Salem Prairie, exhibited a horse rake of his own manufacture, which took a first premium; also a straw cutter of his own make—first premium.

Mr. John H. Lewis, of Oregon City, had a plow—the "Union Farmer"—a strong, well-made implement, furnished with a revolving cutter, which took the first premium. While such plows as this can be bought within our own State, there is no earthly excuse for sending East for our plows. There was another good looking plow, made by N. M. Ward of Dallas, Polk county, which took the second premium. The Illinois "Clipper," of which Mr. F. Bartels exhibited several along side of the Oregon made, did not strike me as being so strong, nor were they superior in any respect, so far as I could judge.

The "Dayton" reaper—exhibited by somebody unknown, and apparently not entered—is a machine constructed on the same general principle as the "Oregon Giant," but cuts only about half as wide and is more complex. It had neither card nor ribbon attached, and though it seemed to be a strong, good machine, I am unable to give the exhibitor credit.

This is a meagre list, is it not? And yet, beside those implements and machines mentioned yesterday, they comprise all that are to be seen. It is a shame upon the State, and upon almost every individual farmer and mechanic, that this department of the Fair is each year a farce and each year more farcical than the preceding one. When will our people learn that improvement in the means by which they carry on their business is one of their essential needs? I am not afraid to assert that if you were to follow some of the sacks of fine grain, big corn and huge vegetables home, to the patches where they were raised, you would find, in half the cases, an old, rickety plow, covered with rust and lying in a fence corner, a rusty hoe, a broken rake, an awkward, heavy and clumsy cradle, hung up in a hen coop, etc., etc., the tools with which the farmer is wearing out his strength and depleting his purse. If our people have got better tools than I have described, why do not they bring them out for exhibition? Even a strong, well-made ox-yoke or hand rake would be a cheering sight at the State Fair.

IN THE PAVILION—EAST SIDE, NORTH WING.

The first specimens I met upon entering the old wing of the Pavilion from the direction of the Clerk's office, were those of Mr. J. H. Bellinger, of Marion county, who exhibited barley and peas, taking first premium, and buckwheat, rye, oats, corn, beans and flax-seed, taking second premiums. Mr. Bellinger also had some cans of Oregon made pitch and tar which took first premiums. These articles being of home manufacture, are worthy of special mention. Another article which I was pleased to see on exhibition, was a wagon wheel, in parts, home-made, of Oregon timber, first premium.

Next to these, was a sack of Oregon made salt by Brown & Fuller, of the Jackson Salt Works. We presumed the Jackson works are located at Jacksonville, but the card attached, gave me no information, and I could find neither Brown, Fuller or the Superintendent, of whom to seek enlightenment.

Holter Brothers, of Portland, had a lot of brooms, of several varieties, including a mammoth broom, once described in the local column of the OREGONIAN. I have rarely ever seen any of State manufacture, superior either in length or fineness of brush or in workmanship.

Mr. C. P. Burkhart, of Linn county, showed some very good white dent corn, which, strangely enough, only took a second premium. I could find no other lot of this variety that had a first premium ribbon, or any other, in fact. Mr. B. also showed some very nice corn meal, white almost as flour. First premium.

Mr. G. W. Hunt, of Sublimity, had a superior exhibition of grass seeds of too many varieties for description. Mrs. Hunt exhibited six pounds of butter, which took first premium over some very good lots.

Going further down the aisle, I found a fine display of big cabbages, beets, squashes, corn, potatoes, etc. The finest cabbages I saw, were grown by A. C. Daniels, of Marion county—the Marble Head. I saw larger heads, but none so handsome and compact. Mr. Daniels had eighteen varieties of squashes which took first premiums; four varieties cabbages and four varieties red pepper.

O. Dickinson, of Salem, and D. Ruble, of Eola, exhibited cases of garden seeds—first premium—put up in style equal to any of the best in the Eastern States.

Robert Gray exhibited some very superior leaf tobacco, which, in appearance, would compare well with any grown north of the Ohio river.

LADIES DEPARTMENT—EAST SIDE.

I hope the ladies will pardon me if I occasionally fail to use exactly the right name for their articles on exhibition, or if I fail to notice flatteringly every article I saw, as persons of the male persuasion are expected to do in whatever pertains to feminity. My only plea can be that while I admired everything for its beauty, I admired some more, for their beauty and usefulness. Belonging somewhat to the old school, I am inclined moreover, to give a preference to grandmothers nice, thick and warm knit socks rather than to Miss Blank's fancy crotcheting or embroidery. Grandmother will appreciate my practical turn of mind, but I am not so sure of the approving smiles of the finical and fashionably educated Miss Blank. Well, what do I care?

Turning upon my track the first article which attracted my attention was a roll of heavy home-woven flannel, by Mrs. R. Davidson, worth, for wear and tear of romping boys or girls, about four times the average of factory made stuff. It was just the thing for this country during these times when ideas of economy ought to displace those of fashionable display.

I was next attracted by a bed quilt—now I am not certain whether it was a bed-quilt or a counterpane—made by Zilphia S. Rigdon, mostly of scraps brought across the plains in 1846.

A card on a white counterpane, cotton fabric, informed me that the counterpane was made by Mrs. L. Shelton, who carded and spun the material and did all the work herself. As a piece of house manufacture, I thought it very superior.

In the course of my walk up the aisle I encountered several beautiful specimens of hand sewing, for which credit is due to Mrs. G. W. Hunt, Mrs. T. W. Davenport, Mrs. J. C. Shelton, "a girl under 13 years," "a girl under 16 years"—G. A. Durbin," and Mrs. E. F. Perkins. The last named lady also exhibited some beautiful crocheting.

Fancy Hunt—I am sure she must be a remarkable grandmother—exhibited some home-made stockings that for fineness and evenness of stitch would put to blush most of the machine work.

The above specimens are, of course, not all that are worthy of mention, and honorable mention; but, the ladies, as usual, were too many for me, and though I should have been glad to embrace all of them in this notice, I am unable to do it. If any lady feels aggrieved at being omitted, I will do any reasonable penance and praise her baby in my very next letter.

The chief attraction of the day has been the trials of speed, which have kept the lovers of sport animated the greater portion of the time, and furnished food for much merriment as well as some quarreling. There were four races in all, two at running in the forenoon and two at trotting in the afternoon. The first came off at 11:30 A. M., and was a single dash of one mile, to rule, designed for all classes. Only two animals were entered, however, the sorrel stallion Jack Miner, by S. J. Durbin, of Salem, and the black gelding Logan, by Henry Geer, of Lebanon. The start was a fair one, the gelding on the inside. Great interest was manifested in the result, and liberal bets were made between the friends of the respective contestants. Jack Miner won the premium, $75, rather easily, amid the cheers of his friends and the admiration of his opponents. The second race was of the same nature and under the same regulations as the first. As I do not find it on the printed programme, I infer that it was arranged by the Society this morning. I said it was of the same nature as the first and subject to the same regulations, by this I mean that it was a running match, for all classes and for a premium of $75. It differed, however, in some important particulars; the trial was for mile heats, three in five, three to enter and two to start. Philip Moore entered the bay horse Forked Deer, and S. G. Thomson entered the brown mare Minnie Rifle. First, second and third heats won by Minnie Rifle—time 2:00, 2:05 and 2:10. Forked Deer contested the first and third heats pretty closely. Taking the lead inside on each heat the mare kept ahead all the while, occasionally somewhat pressed by the horse. Minnie manifested her high temper at the close of the second heat, rushing recklessly into the crowd of spectators and scattering them to the right and left in the wildest confusion.

2:30 P. M. was set for trotting sweepstakes for horse, mare or gelding, single dash of five miles, to harness and ride, premium, $100. Dr. Loryea's gray horse, General Banks, entered by Dimick, and J. P. Dennison's roan mare Nelly, were the only animals entered. Soon after starting General Bank's driver reined him up and returned, claiming that he had heard a calling back from the judges' stand. There had probably been such a call from some one in the crowd below, but the judges persistently denied having made any such call as it would have been clearly in violation of the rules after the tap of the drum. The mare run the race in 15:14 and received the premium. The judges returned the entrance money to the horse. Much excitement followed the announcement of the decision as many bets had been made and the friends of General Banks were unwilling to lose without an opportunity to run against the time. The decision was finally received with general satisfaction.

At 4 o'clock P. M. there was a trial of speed for Oregon bred colts and fillies three years old, mile heats, two in three, to harness and rule. E. F. Welch, of Linn county, entered Billy Seibert, a light bay gelding, L. C. Griffith, of Marion county, entered a dark bay Waterloo filly (not named), and D. O. Clark entered a chestnut sorrel gelding. On the first heat Billy Seibert won, closely pressed by the filly—Clark's horse distanced. Time 4:18. This was a trotting match. On the second heat Clark's horse, by mistake was allowed to go in starting, ran in the way of the filly and disconcerted her somewhat. Seibert won in time 3:55. Clark's horse followed up at more than a 100 yards distance and was greeted by a storm of derisive yells. His horse was pronounced a bilk and the driver was regarded as crazy or laboring under the influence of the "cratur." With this match the sport on the track closed for the day, and though the speed was nothing to be very proud of, yet all seemed satisfied with the entertainment. The turn out on the grounds was an interesting one, embracing many fine carriages, some of which are of Oregon manufacture.

FROM THE CAPITAL.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

The Fair.

SALEM, Oct. 19, 1866.

The race this morning for premium of $150, mile heats two and three to rule, for which Mr. Welch entered Waterloo, and Mr. Acker entered a Portland horse, name not learned, was won by the latter. The first was a dead heat in 3:06. The second and third were won by the Portland horse in 2:07 and 3:02.

The walking race for all horses, mares and geldings, one mile, was won by D. W. Condit's black mare in 10:22; second premium to S. E. May's horse.

The first premium in the equestrian contest, was awarded to Mrs. H. H. Black, of Portland; second premium to Miss Kate Burton, of Yamhill county. There were nine contestants.

Trotting race, single dash of five miles, to harness and rule, was made by Emigrant alone; first mile in 3:11, second in 3:10, third in 3:11, fourth in 3:13, and fifth in 3:14. Premium $150.

Running race for all horses, mares or geldings, single dash of four miles, for a premium of $150, was won by Durbin's Rifleman against J. M. Ward's Sleepy Jake. The first mile in 2:13; the second in 2:15; the third in 2:10; the fourth in 2:15.

The number of visitors to-day was not so large as expected, owing to the rain last night. The Fair has closed and many of the animals and articles exhibited taken away.

Another race is anticipated to-morrow morning.

The Legislature.

The Senate met this evening, but being unable to obtain a quorum, adjourned till 8 A. M. to-morrow. The House is in session but without a quorum.

Troops for Eastern Oregon.

SALEM, October 19.

Gov. Woods has obtained, through Gen. Steele, an order for the transfer of three companies of cavalry from California to this Department, for service on the Canyon City road. They will be started in a few days.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—The eastern line still out of order beyond Fort Laramie. No eastern news received. The Telegraph Agent at Salt Lake, under date of the 18th says: The eastern line still down beyond Fort Laramie. There has been a very heavy storm from here down to the Platte, and the line is badly broken. It will probably be working to-morrow. Snow is visible in all directions. It is raining.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Golden City sailed for Panama to-day with 479 passengers and $666,753 in specie. Among the passengers who left for the East was Edwin Forrest.

Henry W. Jones, a dealer in coal oil and lamps, has filed his petition in insolvency. Liabilities $3,333 88. No assets.

Aldrich J. F. Corder, a grocer, who has become insolvent as he alleges through speculating in Western Addition lots, filed his bankruptcy petition to-day. His liabilities amount to $1,956 97. No assets.

Francis Pardee, residing on Minna street, between Fourth and Fifth, was found lying in an insensible condition on the railroad track on Market street, near Franklin, yesterday afternoon and taken to the Central Railroad Company's depot, on Taylor street, where he died soon after. The following document, intended probably for a will, was found in his pocket:

COLUMBUS DISTRICT, Dec. 24, 1866.—This is to let the State of California know that I leave all my property to my wife, Anne Pardee, and I am the deceased. Signed Francis Pardee. Good bye. No more. God have mercy on you, and I hope we'll meet again soon. Deceased was a native of Gibraltar, aged 37 years, and leaves a wife residing in this city, but no children or property. The supposition is, that he committed suicide.

The failure of Meiggs & Gawley, lumber merchants, was noted yesterday. The following are the attachment suits against them: Wm. B. Bour, $33,732 67; Jno. Sims & Co., $7,633 57, and Adolph German, $400, and H. & S. S. Doe, $145.

Judge Dwinell to-day granted Christian D. Jones a divorce from his wife Emma W. Jones on the ground of willful desertion.

The application of Fanny Hanks for a divorce from Julius Deming Hanks was denied.

The Markets.

Flour—The market continues firm with an advance of 25c ℔ barrel on all grades; Superfine hf sacks $5@5 25; qr sacks $5 25@5 50; extra hf sacks, $5 50@5 75; qr sacks, $5 75@6.

Wheat—Good milling, $1 65; Santa Clara $1 67½; choice, $1 67½; prime for export, $1 75; fair milling, $1 60@1 65; choice $1 75.

Barley—Coast feed, 80c; choice, feed 92½c.

Oats—Fair $1 40; good, $1 45.

Potatoes—Lighthouse, 60c; Bay, 85c.

No gold despatches yet. The wires are still down. Legal tenders are very dull at 69 buying and 70 selling.

Mining stocks continue a little off from the morning Board yesterday. Ophir declined $16; Yellow Jacket, $10; Chollar, $11; Belcher, $4. The leading stocks are firm. For Hale & Norcross, $1,700 was bid this morning; Crown Point, $950; and Savage, $1,160.

Arrived—British ship Mallard, from Cork; British brig, Crown, from Sydney.

FROM THE NORTH.

SEATTLE, Oct. 19.—Judge Darwin to-day sentenced William Powel, who was found guilty of murdering his wife, to be hanged by the neck until he was dead, on the 21st of December next.

James McKay, found guilty of murder in the second degree, was sentenced to fifteen years confinement and hard labor.

Wm. Bridge, found guilty of buying and receiving stolen goods, to one years' confinement and hard labor.

BE TRUE TO YOUR TEETH—And they will be true to you. Never will you need false ones, if you use the Sozodont, morning and evening. It imparts indestructibility to the enamel, keeps it white and spotless, and wonderfully improves the Breath.

ARTISTIC BEAUTY.—ELLSWORTH & CARDWELL, 85 First street, are embellishing the albums of the country with the most BEAUTIFUL PICTURES; while the parlor and drawing-room walls of our citizens are adorned with the most elegant specimens of the photographic art—from the GALLERY. The advantage of having work done at a FIRST CLASS GALLERY like the above it is hardly necessary now to urge.

GOOD NEWS FROM MONTANA.—From the appearance of the miners who are now returning from Blackfoot and the other mining districts of Montana, we should judge that the mines have turned out remarkably well, as they invariably make a large deposit of "the color" at the St. Louis Store, No. 111 Front street, and receive an ample equipment, of course, in the shape of excellent clothing, such as Messrs. KOHN & FISHEL always keep. Everybody can be suited, both as to style and quality, and strictly at San Francisco prices.

PORTLAND ACADEMY AND FEMALE SEMINARY.—Pupils are admitted at any time and are charged only for the remainder of the Quarter.

What Experienced Mill Men think of the Portable Steam Saw Mills built by the Oregon Iron Works:

PORTLAND, Oct. 18th, 1866.

To the Oregon Iron Works:

...—The Portable Steam Saw Mill which we purchased of you last spring for Pen d'Oreille Lake, has been in operation during the past season, and has more than met our expectations in its performance. With three men, we turn out from three to four thousand feet, and with five men, five thousand feet per day of ten hours; and we take pleasure in recommending these mills as the most SUBSTANTIAL, DESIRABLE AND PERFECT MILLS IN USE, and especially adapted to the wants of this country, on account of their compact form, ease of transportation and the facility with which they can be set up and put in operation. Although subjected to the most severe tests, no repairs have been required.

G. VENARD,
CHARTRES COFFEE!
Manufactory Established in June, 1851.
STEAM POWER, NOS. 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.
HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.
The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.
BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.
Each package bears the signature of G. VENARD.

A Remarkable Story.

A Century's Search for Capt. Kidd's Buried Treasure—Singular Secret of an Old Sailor—Subterranean Tunnels and Relics of the Past—Discovery of Vaults of Masonry, Oak Chests, Barrels and Mysterious Chambers—$100,000 already Spent in the Search—$4,000,000 said to be the Prize.

CHESTER, MAHONE BAY, NOVA SCOTIA, August 24, 1866.

Many years ago, when the Province was a wild blooming forest in summer, and a bleak, snow-capped wilderness in winter, with here and there a small clearing, from which arose the smoke of some hardy settler's hut, an old man resided in the then British Colony of New England, whose life had been wrapped in mystery. He had been a sailor in his younger days, and people said he had been a soldier too, for upon his brown face there still remained traces of the cutlass. Often had the curious endeavored to sound him upon his early career, but it was a fruitless task. The old man was as mute as the rock regarding his history. At last, when people began to give up all hope of ever extracting his secret, the old cosmopolite was taken sick, and on his deathbed admitted that he had been one of Capt. Kidd's rovers; that many years before he had assisted in burying $4,000,000 of gold beneath the soil of a secluded island east of Boston, the proceeds of Kidd's piracies. The death of this mysterious man and the secret he had divulged were borne from lip to lip, until Kidd and his hidden treasure became a household word among the settlers along the New England coast, who for years searched all the islands along the coast for some traces of the subterranean treasure vaults. But all these searches threw no light upon the treasure, and years rolled by and people gave up the search.

Nearly a quarter of a century later, three men, named Smith, Vaud and McGinnis, emigrated from New England, taking up land upon Oak Island. As soon as these men had erected their huts they commenced their work of felling the forest that covered the Island. McGinnis, while roaming over the island one day, was astonished to find traces of former civilization, and upon pushing his explorations further, he discovered that the first growth of timber had been cut down and that a second growth was springing up, while some stumps of oak that had fallen under some white man's axe were visible. Adjacent to this clearing stood an old giant oak whose forked branches fell over the small clearing, and to the forked part of the oak, by means of a wooden trammel, converting the fork into a small triangle, was attached an old tackle block. "Much he marvelled, much he wondered," at these evidences of prior settlement and away he went to Smith and Vaud and reported his secret. The following day they visited the spot together, and on attempting to remove the block it broke to pieces, so decayed was it by age and exposure.

While exploring the island they found that the remains of a tolerably well made road, from it to the west shore of the island, was still discernable, and part of this road is still seen. The first thought that struck them was that this was the island referred to by the dying sailor. The secluded situation of the island, the marks of former habitation, appeared in keeping with all they had heard of Kidd's hidden plunder. They were still more strongly impressed with the belief when they found that the ground over which the block and tackle hung had settled and formed a hollow. At once the three pioneers set to work. Clearing the young timber from the sunken ground, and they struck a tier of flag stones, evidently not formed there by nature. Subsequently they ascertained that these stones were not indigenous to the island, but had been conveyed there from Gold river, two miles distant.

DISCOVERY OF AN OLD PIT.

Removing the stones, the treasure seekers entered the mouth of an old pit or shaft, that had been filled. The mouth of the pit was seven feet in diameter, the sides of it being of tough, hard clay, but the earth with which it had been filled was soft and loamy, and easily removed. Still they descended the shaft, foot by foot, discovering some new indication that increased their hopes of at last hitting the long buried treasure. Ten feet from the surface they struck a floor of solid oak logs, tightly attached to the sides, and below this two feet of vacant space, caused by the rubbish of the filling of the pit having settled down. They pushed their explorations fifteen feet further down without striking the sought for prize, and after driving sticks into the wood, filled up the shaft and abandoned the work.

THE SECRET DIVULGED.

Compelled to abandon the search, for want of money, Smith and his associates endeavored to enlist the assistance of their neighbors and told their secret; but the people were poor and ignorant, and laughed at them for attempting to find Kidd's money, when he invariably "killed a nigger to guard it." Fifteen years passed without any further attempts being made to fathom the mystery of the pit.

A COMPANY FORMED TO PROSPECT.

At length, an old resident named Lynd, heard the story of the pit, visited the island, examined the ground, and believing there were the vaults of Kidd, went home and formed a company. Early in the following summer they loaded a small schooner with tools and on arriving at Oak Island commenced the search anew under the supervision of the three original discoverers. Digging down they discovered the sticks planted by Smith and Vaud, and fifteen feet further down they struck a second tier of oak logs. Ten feet further down they struck a tier of charcoal, and ten feet further, or about fifty feet from the surface, a tier of putty. Further down was a flagstone one foot by too with some rudely cut letters and figures upon it. They hoped this inscription would assist in solving the mystery, but they are unable to decipher it. At a depth of ninety feet they found indications of water; at ninety-three feet the water increased. Night coming on, they sunk a crowbar down five feet and struck a hard impenetrable substance found by the sides of the pit. Some supposed it to be wood, others called it a chest. They quit work for the night and returned home, confident that with the morning's sun they would possess the long sought treasure; and they discussed the question of its division. Morning settled the matter, however, for on repairing to work they found sixty feet of water in the shaft.

After futile attempts to bail the water out, pumps were put in, but these, too, failed. As they pumped out the water still stood at the same level. The next step was to sink a new shaft beside the old one, and tunnel from it under the old shaft, in the hope of striking the money chest. When within ten or fifteen feet of the pit, the earth between the tunnel and pit gave way, and the water rushed in so rapidly that the men had barely time to retreat with their lives before sixty-five feet of water filled the tunnel and shaft. This placed a damper upon the energetic seekers after hidden treasure; and the work was given up after several thousand pounds had been squandered in what some of the shareholders now began to think an ignis fatuus.

ANOTHER ASSOCIATION FORMED.

Fifty years glided into obscurity before the work was renewed, yet the shafts and tunnels still remained full of water, and rose and fell with the ebbing and flowing of the tide in the bay, showing clearly that the island had been pierced by subterranean passages. This brings us down to a period of fifteen years ago. A number of young men, in the summer of 1848, proceeded to the island and renewed the work. They followed down the shaft of their predecessors, when they encountered the same difficulty—water coming in upon them. After bailing it out, they pierced the bottom of the pit with a chisel and sledge-hall auger, at a distance of ninety-eight feet from the surface, when they struck a hard, wooden obstruction, which they confidently believed to be the money chest. The machinery brought up a bunch of something which subsequently proved to be grass peculiar to the Spanish main. This gave the toilers new courage, and they fell to up the discovery with renewed energy. The chisel having been attached to the auger, they cut through a spruce log about six inches thick, when it dropped a foot and struck a piece of oak timber four and a half inches thick. They soon found something harder than wood, and continued boring until the auger settled down about twenty inches, while passing through this substance, a sharp metalic sound greeted the ears of those employed. It resembled the noise a bar of iron would make on being wormed through a keg of nails, and the laborers were in ecstacies. There they were within a few feet of Kidd's gold! Twenty inches further down more wood was found, and below it the same mineral substance. Then came wood again and afterwards mud. The only thing taken out was part of the head of an oak cask; one end had been cut off and the other exhibited the marks of the cooper's knife. Other bores were sunk near this one, but with the same results. Among other articles taken out was more Spanish grass and part of the hoop of a barrel with the bark in a good state of preservation.

THE TOILERS IN DESPAIR.

After making several bores with like results, and finding it impossible to keep down the water, with an ample exchequer, they thought of the Dutchman and his anchor, and then looking upon themselves and the treasure that lay hidden beneath them, many of the company withdrew from the work. The few who persevered, from the fact that the water in the shafts fell and rose with the tide, became convinced that there were subterranean channels connecting the bay with the pit. Acting upon this belief, they searched the shore, when upon the east side of the cove they found fine, well made drains entering the base of the island at low-water mark. Removing the covering, to their surprise they found that the stones forming the arch to the drains were coated with a cover of this Spanish grass. Further investigations showed that the drains had been run in the direction of the old pit, and considerable cocoanut fibre and Spanish grass were found as they progressed. They endeavored to follow the direction of the drain, but failed to find it connecting with a perpendicular shaft. The water soon rushed into the drain upon them. The next attempt was to sink a shaft and endeavor to strike this drain or channel on a line between the old pit and the entrance at the water. At a depth of seventy-four feet water filled up the shaft. Several other shafts were sunk with the same results, and winter coming on, the work was abandoned until Spring. Spring came, but the disappointed shareholders, some of whom had sunk their last dollar in the numerous pits, were completely disheartened, and the work was not renewed for nine years. In the meantime the charter of the company expired, and the seekers after Kidd's treasure returned to more profitable employment, still, however, convinced that the treasure was there and accessible, if they could only stop the flow of water, so as to follow the old pit to its original bottom.

The story of the excavations on Oak Island had in the meantime spread over the whole province, and there were hundreds who were disposed to make one more attempt to fathom the mystery. Accordingly in 1861 meetings were held at various points in the province, full particulars of the enterprise laid before them, and stock to the amount of $2,000 subscribed. Several new pits were sunk and tunnels run from them in the direction of the "money pit" with the view of finding the subterranean channel that floods the pits, but after an expenditure of $1,200 the results were not satisfactory. The company, which now comprises some of the most influential gentlemen of Halifax, have increased their capital stock and as a dernier resort, are now building a dam round the base of the island for the purpose of cutting off the bay water for the subterranean channels, when they propose to pump the water out of the excavations already made, and follow the channels to their terminal. It is expected that the dam will be completed the present week, and the company now feel sanguine that Kidd's $4,000,000 of gold are almost within their grasp. It is estimated that fully $100,000 have been expended already upon the search, and the present company, who are men of means, are determined to solve the mystery of Oak Island, if it costs as much more.

Such is the history of the "toilers of the isle." All the members of the first two companies have passed away, and it remains to the third generation to follow up the work of their ancestors. Should their expectations be realized, and I must admit that their indications are good, what a remarkable mystery will be cleared up, and what a sensation produced. That a stupendous work of art has been constructed by unknown hands at Oak Island is a certainty. That most of the material used is indigenous to this country is also certain. What these works were constructed for, and by whom, and what they contain, alone remain mysteries, which, let us hope, will soon be cleared up.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

PORTLAND, FRIDAY, 2 P. M., Oct. 19th, 1866.

We have but little change to note since our last. The general trade of the city is good. Considerable amounts of merchandise are still being sent up the Columbia, although the demand must soon cease, as the final closing of the roads is not far distant. Freights from Umatilla and Wallula are very high, ruling at from 12 to 14 cents per pound. There is now upon the way as much stock as can reach the various camps before winter sets in. The surplus will be stored and await the opening of the roads in the spring. The stocks in the city are heavy.

The demand for the Interior still continues brisk, although the late rains have no doubt stopped the transportation by wagons, and it is probable that the demand will fall off until a rise in the river will enable dealers to resume the use of the boats.

Large amounts of wheat are stored in the warehouses along the river, and quite a demand for the use of the mills already exists. Flour is beginning to accumulate in the city, and but little time will probably elapse before we have large stocks on hand. But little demand for shipment up the Columbia, the trade of the mines has been supplied by Grand Ronde and Walla Walla Valleys. The vessels now in port—the Mestma and Oriflamme—will take flour to San Francisco. The Fideliter took a good cargo to Victoria.

The Eldridge has now arrived with a full cargo, from the Sandwich Islands. She reports the Falkinberg off the bar. The Falkinberg has also a full cargo and sailed a few days before the Eldridge. Much praise is due our enterprising merchants who have so successfully taken the initiative step in the trade with Honolulu. It is fast

Freights for this port are freely offered in San Francisco, assuming an important position in our market.

The vessels refused freight a day, previous to sailing. Enough freight was refused to have loaded another ship this last trip. Our San Francisco friends say:

Our business relations with Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Washington and Nevada on the North, are rapidly increasing. They already rank high in the scale among our very best customers. They are large consumers of general merchandise, sending us in return, however, little else than the precious dust of the mountains—at least Oregon only sends us produce; the others only of the precious metal. Time, however, must soon equalize and regulate all this. We want railroads and other improved methods of transportation in place of the slow, tedious and expensive wagons that now traverse our mountains and valleys. Finally, and above all, we have health and bountiful crops for which to be thankful to the Giver of all Good;—our course is still onward and upward, and with good cheer we will go on to greater prosperity.

We quote from McCraken & Merrill's market report of the 9th inst., the following. The advice in regard to the probable advance in cotton goods was noted last week.

The news from New York by private telegram of the large advance in Cotton and Cotton Goods has had the corresponding and legitimate effects upon our markets. Recent intelligence from Japan of a rise of $1@5 per picul in the price of Teas, tends to strengthen holders, notwithstanding the heavy stocks now in hand.

Advices from China and Australia are of late date, yet their markets for our Breadstuffs are not sufficiently encouraging to add any additional stimulus to our own, which is already considerably excited by telegrams received from Great Britain and New York, covering large orders for Flour and Wheat that are now in process of execution, numerous first-class clipper ships having already been chartered for the purpose.

Referring to our Commercial and Financial summary in another column, reviewing the business of this port for the past nine months of the year, we proceed to give a bird's-eye view of the market thus far in October. Bags and bagging are in superabundant supply, and therefore dull and nominal. Bread is higher. Of building materials, lumber favors the buyer. Boots and shoes are more inquired for. Candles of prime quality are in active request, with some speculative purchases, but for common brands great dullness prevails. Cordage is unchanged. Coal favors the seller. Cement is dull and nominal. Coffee is in large supply, and prices nominal. Chemicals are unchanged. Clothing is in good request. Dry Goods—Domestics are higher, while Foreign are dull and nominal. Drugs and Medicines are more in favor, with an increased jobbing requirement. French Goods are seemingly neglected. Fruits, Sauces, etc., are in limited request. Fish of all kinds remain as for some time past—quiet. Gunny Bags are slow of sale. Gunpowder is largely in request for blasting. Hardware is in lessened stock, with an increased trade. Hoops are tending to lower figures. Leather is of ready sale, at old prices. Matting is in tight request. Malt Liquors claim much attention. Metals are well controlled by leading jobbing importers, excepting Pig Iron, which is in large present and prospective supply, and ruling at low figures. Matches don't pay to export. Molasses is in fair request. Nails are low in stock and firm in price. Naval stores are dull of sale at small figures. Oils—no sales of Sperm or Whale; Lard and Linseed both favor the buyer; Olive is neglected; China Nut is lower; Coal and Kerosene have been freely sold, according to measure and weight at old rates. Paper is yet firm, though News is beginning to waver. Provisions have received slight attention, though there is some inquiry at low prices. Bacon and Butter find favor; Beef is scarce; Lard is neglected, Pork is nominal; Cheese is in request; Hams are in light stock. Quicksilver sales as for months past, with an average export trade. Rice is more in favor. Salt is quiet. Starch is still. Soap is dull. Spices are low in stock, but in very limited request. Syrups are free of sale at the decline. Sugars sell more freely at current low rates. Spirits lack animation. Teas command high figures for prime Chops of Black and Green. Tobacco is dull of sale for all kinds of Manufactured. Wines—Domestic are in growing favor; Foreign are slow of sale. Wooden Ware is in good supply, and Yeast Powders command former notation.

Domestic Produce Market.

PORTLAND, October 19, 1866.

Flour is in demand, with but little change

Wheat is higher, owing to the rise in the San Francisco market. There is but little brought in and will not be until a rise in the river. Large amounts are stored in warehouses above, awaiting an opportunity of shipment. The previous low prices will probably cause the producers to hold it for a rise in the market.

The business since our last has been moderate. We quote:

SOMETHING NEW!
THE NEW LIGHT!
DANFORD'S
Atmospheric Coal Oil Gas Lamp!

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT OF SOME SORT, IS A UNIVERSAL necessity. A Safe, Cheap and Brilliant one is a Luxury—a luxury only enjoyed heretofore by those who live in large cities where Gas is used. Years of study and much capital have been exhausted in experiments to produce a lamp wherein the ordinary Kerosene or Coal Oil could be used without a chimney, and without unpleasant odor while in use. That fruitful source of expense, trouble and annoyance, the chimney, is in DANFORD'S COAL OIL GAS LAMP avoided; it is the most perfect Lamp and will entirely supersede all other Coal Oil Lamps; it is the cheapest artificial light that can be used, yielding the light of an ordinary six foot Gas burner for less than ½ cent per hour, or double the quantity of light of an ordinary Chimney Lamp, for one third the cost. It will burn when turned down to a taper-light, ten hours for a cent, is free from smoke, can be carried from room to room and the wind will not blow it out. These LAMPS will be on exhibition and for sale at the Music and Art Gallery of Shanahan & Dufrene, corner of Morrison and First streets.
